

CPHort is a certified Entry® Chloride-Free Contractor. Any contractor can throw around chloride salts, but maintaining a facility using chloride-free technologies that eliminate tracking as well as being safer for people, properties, pets and the planet requires a high level of expertise. This certification is only given to contractors who have a proven history using Entry® and is based upon chloride-free knowledge, operational processes, customer satisfaction and environmental stewardship.

Branch Creek | Our Story

Branch Creek founder Nate Clemmer and his family have been in the fertilizer business since 1869, so they know this industry. When Nate and his family moved into a house on the Branch Creek, he struggled to find healthy, effective and affordable products that could be used around his children, dog and water sources. He created Branch Creek—to help bridge the gap that exists between the demand for organic and our ability to supply it.

Branch Creek solutions prioritize our health and planet without added work or sky-high spending. We produce products that are better for the environment while also being higher-performing and lower in cost than traditional products, so you catch a break, and Mother Nature does, too! Branch Creek products have been carefully developed to benefit water, soil, and living things — all while making every day better.

Our brand hopes to inspire others to innovate in the grounds maintenance industry, filling the supply chain with better, bolder and more environmentally-friendly products. As stricter building certifications such as those adopted by the USGBC or Built Green become common place, we believe that this is the future of the business, and our products will be a driver for building performance. Learn more at branchcreek.earth.
